

MAR. '81

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MEMO TO: Calendar Editors

RE: Reagan Administration Telecommunications

Policy Challenges: Seminar at GW

International competition--an urgent challenge in the telecommunications and information industries--is the focus of one workshop during a George Washington University Center for Telecommunications Studies workshop/seminar in March. The general theme of the workshop/seminar is, "Reagan Administration Telecommunications Policy Challenges."

Workshop participants include:

John Eger, a key communications policymaker for both the Nixon and Ford administrations, will provide the framework for the session. (He will illuminate the problems faced by American-owned international communications firms due to non-reciprocal working arrangements that have developed or are emerging in the international arena.) In recent years, Eger has been international communications adviser to major industrial groups including the International Communications Association, the largest existing association of communications users.

Robert E. Sageman, president of the newly created AT&T International, will discuss the implications of the international telecommunications and information market for the domestic economy.

page two of two

Veronica Ahern, director of the Office of International Affairs in the Commerce Department's National Telecommunications and Information Administration, will serve as moderator.

Other sessions include:

- Technology challenges to policy;
- Issues in domestic broadcasting;
- Regulatory policy;
- Common carriers and regulations.

The workshop will be conducted by the GW Center for Telecommunications Studies in cooperation with:

- Armed Forces Communications and Electronics Association;
- Electronic Industries Association;
- National Association of Broadcasters.

For information write or call the Center for Telecommunications Studies,
George Washington University, 2000 L St., NW, Suite 307, Washington, D.C.
20050 (202) 676-8243.

December 18, 1980
Robert Bové
(202) 676-6463 (Office)
(202) 333-0292

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations, Washington, D. C. 20052 Phone 676-6460

DATE: MARCH 2, 1981

CONTACT: JANE LINGO
676-6460 (office)
234-3453 (evening)

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

JOHN RUSSELL MASON

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- John Russell Mason, librarian and curator of art emeritus of George Washington University, died after a stroke on Saturday, February 28, at George Washington University Hospital. He had had pneumonia. He was 81.

Born January 1, 1900, in Philadelphia, he attended Roosevelt High School in Washington, D.C. He received a B.A. from George Washington in 1923 and an M.A. in 1925 with a specialization in English. His degree in library science was from Columbia University School of Library Service (B.S. in L.S. 1933).

He began his library work at George Washington as a student assistant in 1920. In 1923, he was appointed chief assistant. He served as assistant librarian (1923 to 1929), associate librarian (1929 to 1933) and as librarian from 1933 to 1965. In 1944, while continuing his responsibilities as librarian, he was appointed curator of art, a post he held until 1965. In 1965, he was made librarian and curator of art emeritus but continued to serve for another year until his full retirement in 1966. During his 46 years of service to GW, the library's holdings increased fourfold.

Through his work as curator of art, the university's art holdings were enlarged in number and value. With the late GW President Cloyd H. Marvin, he was responsible for the acquisition of a Gilbert Stuart portrait of George Washington. He presented 176 exhibitions of art ranging from the showing of the Walter P. Chrysler Collection to annual student shows and works of Washington artists.

In 1951, the university awarded him an Alumni Achievement Award. In 1974, the John Russell Mason Room (Room 301, used as a reading and study lounge) was dedicated in the GW Library, now the Melvin Gelman Library.

An accomplished musician, he was unofficial organist for the university for a number of years, playing for many university occasions.

He was a member of the American Library Association, the District of Columbia Library Association (which he served twice as president), the American Guild of Organists, the Library Association of Great Britain, the Special Libraries Association, as well as the Cosmos Club and Arts Club of Washington.

He lived at the Arts Club of Washington, 2017 Eye St., N.W., for many years and stayed on there after his retirement from GW. He spent his summers in New England and continued his interest in books, art and music, as well as enjoying extensive world travel.

Mr. Mason is survived by two nieces: Mrs. Miriam Henschcliffe of Hyattsville, Md., and Mrs. Virginia Rolfes of Beltsville, Md.

A memorial service will be held at George Washington on Thursday, March 5, at 12:30 p.m. in the Dorothy Betts Marvin Theater, 800-21st St., N.W. in the Marvin Center. Interment will be private.

It is suggested that, in lieu of flowers, expressions of sympathy be in the form of contributions to George Washington University.

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MAILING DATE: MARCH 3, 1981

CONTACT: DIANE H. RUSH
676-6464 (Office)
338-3497 (Home)

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

GW EDUCATION SCHOOL RECEIVES RECOGNITION

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- The School of Education and Human Development at George Washington University was recently awarded a Certificate of Recognition for its participation in and support of the 1981 International Year of Disabled Persons (IYDP). GW is the only university accepted by the U.S. Council for the IYDP as a national partner.

The education school sponsored a conference last fall for professionals in rehabilitation, special education and therapeutic recreation to discuss strategies for improving attitudes about disabled persons and integrating them into the total educational system, as well as legislative, financial and research areas related to the disabled which need attention. Next fall, the school will offer a new course in international aspects of disabilities.

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MEMO TO EDITORS

RE: EXPERT IN JAPANESE MANUFACTURING TO GIVE GW SHORT COURSE

The man credited as a major force behind Japan's rapid post-war climb to the top in quality manufacturing will conduct a four-day short course sponsored by George Washington University in "Japanese Methods for Productivity and Quality" March 16-19 at the Sheraton National Hotel in Arlington, Va.

Dr. W. Edwards Deming, 80, is a statistics expert who exhorts the use of statistical methods rather than personal judgment in decision making. He taught more than 30 years at New York University and was spotlighted last year on NBC's "White Paper" report on productivity in Japan.

Sponsored by GW's Continuing Engineering Education Program, the non-credit course will interest students, engineers, managers, supervisors and others responsible for ensuring uniformity of product output at minimum cost.

Deming has also taught this course in San Diego, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, Chicago and Nashville.

March 5, 1981

Diane H. Rush, News Manager
676-6464 (Office)
338-3497 (Evening)

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MAILING DATE: MARCH 10, 1981

CONTACT: JANE LINGO
676-6460 (office)
234-3453 (evening)

PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENT
FOR BROADCAST THROUGH MARCH 20

SPECIAL SATURDAY OPENING OF DIMOCK GALLERY, GW

(25 SECONDS)

There will be a special Saturday opening of George Washington University's Dimock (DIM-uk) Gallery on March 21st from 1 to 3 p.m. This is to give members of the public an opportunity to meet GW faculty artists William Woodward and Fuller Griffith and to talk with them about their paintings and intaglio work on display in the gallery. The Dimock (DIM-uk) Gallery is off the lower lounge of Lisner Auditorium, 21st and H Streets, N.W.

THE NORTHERN VIRGINIA SUN
1227 N. Ivy St.
Arlington, Va. 22210

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052

ARLINGTON RESIDENT Fuller Griffith, assistant professor of graphics at George Washington University, is shown working in the GW graphics studio, taking a copy of his etching "Phantograph" off the ink press. The Dimock Gallery at George Washington is currently showing 27 of his intaglio art works along with paintings by William Woodward, GW assistant professor of painting. The gallery, off the lower lounge of Lisner Auditorium, 21st and H Sts., N.W., is open to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. There will be a special opening of the gallery on Saturday, March 21st, (the day after the show's official closing) between 1 and 3 p.m. to give members of the public the opportunity to meet the artists. Lisner Auditorium is a short walk from the Foggy Bottom/GWU Metro station on the Blue Line. Griffith lives on North Wakefield Street.

Office of Public Relations
George Washington University
Washington, D.C. 20052

CONTACT: JANE LINGO
676-6460 (office)
234-3453 (evening)

GEORGETOWNER WILLIAM WOODWARD is shown with his painting "City by the Sea," oil on canvas, one of a group of 28 of his works on exhibition in the Dimock Gallery at George Washington through March 20. The gallery, off the lower lounge of Lisner Auditorium, 21st and H Sts., N.W., is open to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. There will be a special opening of the gallery on Saturday, March 21st (the day after the show's official closing) between 1 and 3 p.m. to give members of the public the opportunity to meet the artist. Woodward is assistant professor of painting at GW. Also on exhibit in the Dimock Gallery is the work of Fuller Griffith, GW assistant professor of graphics. His works, 27 in number, include prints, etchings and engravings. He will also be present on Saturday, March 21, between 1 and 3 p.m. Woodward lives on 27th Street, N.W.

Office of Public Relations
George Washington University
Washington, D.C. 20052

CONTACT: JANE LINGO
676-6460 (office)
234-3453 (evening)

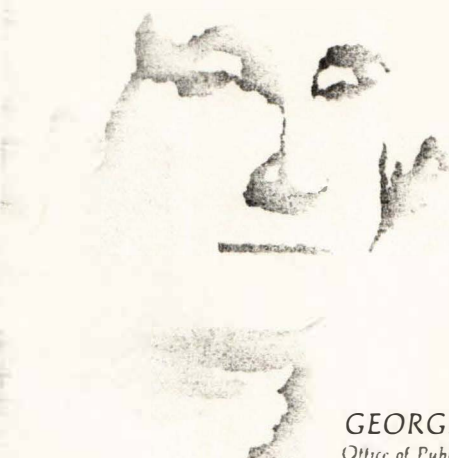

THE GEORGETOWNER
1203-28th Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20007

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE
717 N. St. Asaph St.
Alexandria, Va. 22214

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052

JUDGE LLOYD FLETCHER of the U.S. Court of Claims, right, an Alexandria resident, is shown with George Washington University President Lloyd H. Elliott before the recent GW Winter Convocation when Judge Fletcher received an Alumni Achievement Award from the university. Judge Fletcher holds the degree of Juris Doctor (1939) from George Washington.

Office of Public Relations
George Washington University
Washington, D.C. 20052

CONTACT: JANE LINGO
676-6460 (office)

NORTHERN VIRGINIA SUN
1227 N. Ivy St.
Arlington, Va. 22210

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MAILING DATE: THURSDAY, MARCH 12, 1981

CONTACT: JANE LINGO
676-6460 (Office)
234-3453 (Evening)

GW DIMOCK GALLERY -- ANNUAL AWARDS SHOW

WHAT: ANNUAL AWARDS SHOW INCLUDING DAVID LLOYD KREEGER AWARDS COMPETITION

WHO: GW SENIORS AND GRADUATE STUDENTS IN ART

WHEN: THURSDAY, APRIL 2, THROUGH FRIDAY, APRIL 24

WHERE: DIMOCK GALLERY, GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
OFF THE LOWER LOUNGE OF LISNER AUDITORIUM
21st and H STREETS, N.W.

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Works of George Washington University seniors and graduate students in art will be on exhibition in the Dimock Gallery from Thursday, April 2, through Friday, April 24, in GW's Annual Awards Show, which includes the David Lloyd Kreeger Awards competition.

Awards will be given for ceramics, drawing, design, painting, photography, print making, sculpture, papers in art history and visual communication. Works for the exhibition will be selected and awards designated by a panel of outside professionals in the arts.

Donors for the awards include David Lloyd Kreeger, the Franz Bader Gallery, Inc., Dr. and Mrs. Jerome Canter (who give the Morris M. Aein Memorial Prize in Drawing), Robert N. Alfandre, Julian H. Singman, Esq., William C. Barbee, and Ginns Muth Company.

-more-

GW, DIMOCK GALLERY

page two of two

Being awarded for the first time is an annual purchase prize in painting given by Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Friedman to be called the Hayes Friedman Painting Prize. A purchase prize enables the university to add to its permanent collection.

The gallery, off the lower lounge of Lisner Auditorium, 21st and H Streets, N.W., is open to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MEMO TO: Calendar Editors

RE: "The Two Koreas," Subject of Discussion at GW

"The Two Koreas: Foreign Policies, Reunification and Leadership Successions," is the subject of a discussion at George Washington University, 7:30-9 p.m., Thursday March 26, in GW's Marvin Center, rooms 413-14, 21st and H Streets, NW.

Leading the discussion will be GW Professor Harold C. Hinton, member of the International Institute for Strategic Studies, and Ralph N. Clough, Fellow with the Institute for Sino-Soviet Studies.

For information and reservation's call Michael Bowers at 676-6435.

March 12, 1981

Robert Bové
676-6463 (Office)
333-0292 (Evenings)

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MARCH 13, 1981

MEMO TO NATIONAL NEWS, SCIENCE, TECHNOLOGY AND SPACE EDITORS
RE: GW SOURCE ON U.S. SPACE SHUTTLE

As the date of the U.S. space shuttle launch from Kennedy Space Center in Florida draws nearer, George Washington University's resident expert on the shuttle program will be a valuable source to interpret "the politics of space" for you.

Dr. John M. Logsdon, author of The Decision to Go to the Moon and director of GW's graduate program in science, technology and public policy, is an authority on the evolution and current status of U.S. space policy leading to the shuttle program. He is currently working on a new book to be published this year, The U.S. in Space: Policy-Making in the Post-Apollo Era. Logsdon can discuss the political forces that will shape the next decade in space; the military role of the shuttle; and potential business, industrial and private use of the shuttle.

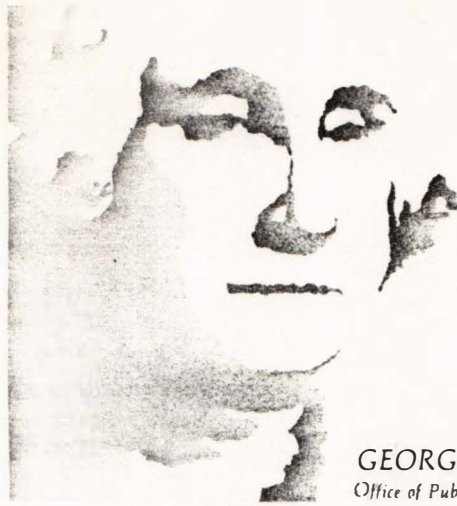

"Within 50 to 75 years, John Q. Public will be able to book passage on a space shuttle just as if it were Amtrak," says Logsdon. "It's not an 'if' question; it's a 'when' question," he says, adding, "Space is not very far away, it's just expensive to get there. When the cost goes down, it will be available to all."

With the launch of the space shuttle, the U.S. will end a period of space exploration and begin an era of space utilization, according to Logsdon, who will be present at the launch, now expected to be during the first two weeks in April.

On Wednesday, April 1, he will speak about the shuttle program in George Washington University's Marvin Center, 800 21st St. NW, at 8 p.m.

Logsdon may be reached at 676-7292.

Diane H. Rush, News Manager
676-6464 (Office)
338-3497 (Evening)

CHESTNUT HILL LOCAL
Marie Jones & Ehrlick, Editor
8434 Germantown Avenue
Philadelphia, Pa. 19118

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052

STEPHEN NORRIS, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles M. Norris of Chestnut Hill, Pa., left, is shown with Vicki Baker, George Washington University director of student financial aid, who holds a plaque recently presented to GW by the Metropolitan Chapter of ARCS Foundation, Inc. ARCS stands for Achievement Rewards for College Scientists. The plaque bears the names of 30 scholars who have been given ARCS scholarship aid at GW since 1970. Norris, a two-time winner of an ARCS scholarship award, is a Ph.D. candidate in the field of physiology. He is a graduate of William Penn Charter High School and Trinity College in Hartford, Conn., where he received a B.S. in biology.

Office of Public Relations
George Washington University
Washington D.C. 20052

CONTACT: JANE LINGO
(202) 676-6460 (office)
(202) 234-3453 (evening)

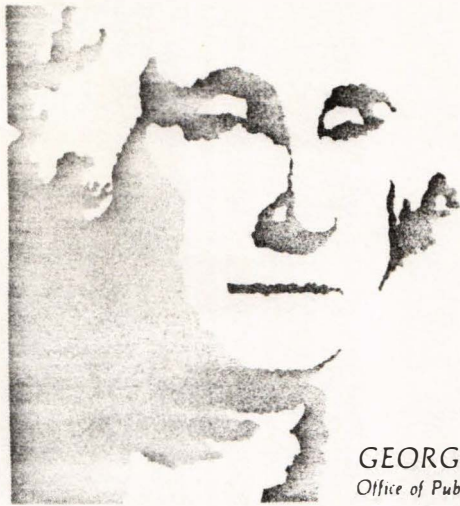

FOGGY BOTTOM RESIDENT Edward R. Weismiller, right, of 2400 Virginia Ave., N.W., a member of the English department at George Washington Univeristy since 1968, is shown with GW Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs Harold F. Bright before the recent GW Winter Convocation. Professor Weismiller received the status of professor emeritus of English at the ceremony in the GW Charles E. Smith Center.

Office of Public Relations
George Washington University
Washington, D.C. 20052

CONTACT: JANE LINGO
676-6460 (office)
234-3453 (evening)

Kathy Haley, Editor
FOGGY BOTTOM NEWS
c/o West End Library
24th and L Sts. N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20037

THE NORTHWEST CURRENT
5428 Macarthur Blvd.
Washington, D.C. 20016

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052

STEPHEN NORRIS of the 3200 block of Wisconsin Avenue, N.W., left, is shown with Vicki Baker, George Washington University director of student financial aid, who holds a plaque recently presented to GW by the Metropolitan Washington Chapter Of ARCS Foundation, Inc. ARCS stands for Achievement Rewards for College Scientists. The plaque bears the names of 30 scholars who have been given ARCS scholarship aid at GW since 1970. Norris, a two-time winner of an ARCS scholarship award, is a Ph.D. candidate in the field of physiology. He is a graduate of William Penn Charter High School and Trinity College in Hartford, Conn., where he received a B.S. in biology.

Office of Public Relations
George Washington University
Washington, D.C. 20052
Washington

CONTACT: JANE LINGO
(202) 676-6460 (office)
(202) 234-3453 (evening)

THE JOURNAL NEWSPAPERS
EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT
6885 Commercial Drive
Springfield, Va. 22151

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052

THOMAS A. MAZZUCHI, right, son of Mrs. M.S. Mazzuchi of Chesterfield Road, Rockville, Md., is shown with Vicki Baker, center, George Washington University director of student financial aid, and fellow-student Stephen Norris. Ms. Baker holds a plaque recently presented to GW by the Metropolitan Washington Chapter of ARCS Foundation, Inc. ARCS stands for Achievement Rewards for College Scientists. The plaque bears the names of 30 scholars who have been given ARCS scholarship aid at GW since 1970. Norris and Mazzuchi, the current ARCS scholars, are studying physiology and operations research, respectively.

Office of Public Relations
George Washington University
Washington, D.C. 20052

CONTACT: JANE LINGO
676-6460 (office)
234-3453 (evening)

THOMAS A. MAZZUCHI of Gildar Street, Alexandria, right, is shown with Vicki Baker, center, George Washington University director of student financial aid, and fellow-student Stephen Norris. Ms. Baker holds a plaque recently presented to GW by the Metropolitan Washington Chapter of ARCS Foundation, Inc. ARCS stands for Achievement Rewards for College Scientists. The plaque bears the names of 30 scholars who have been given ARCS scholarship aid at GW since 1970. Mazzuchi and Norris, the current ARCS scholars, are studying operations research and physiology, respectively.

Office of Public Relations
George Washington University
Washington, D.C. 20052

CONTACT: JANE LINGO
676-6460 (evening)
234-3453 (evening)

THE ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE
717 N. St. Asaph Street
Alex., Va. 22213

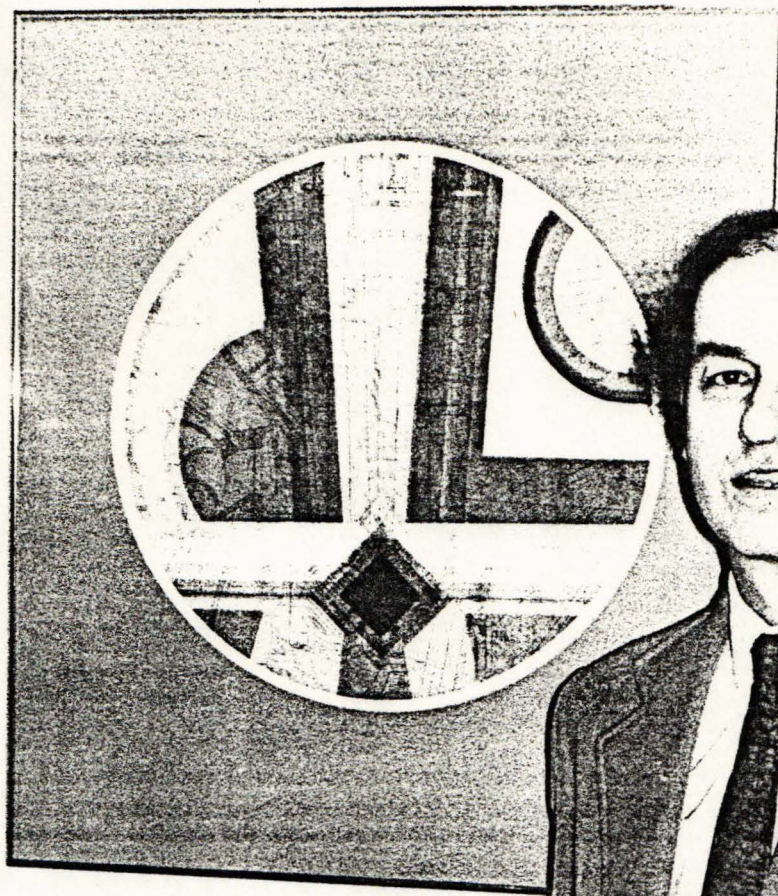

THE JOURNAL NEWSPAPERS
6885 Commercial Drive
Springfield, Va. 22151

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052

ARLINGTON RESIDENT Fuller Griffith, assistant professor of graphics at George Washington University, stands beside his work "Everythin' Hittin" on Nothin' ," a collage and engraving 18 1/4 inches in diameter. The work is on exhibition in GW's Dimock Gallery along with 26 other pieces by Professor Griffith through Friday, March 20. The gallery, off the lower lounge of Lisner Auditorium, 21st and H Sts., N.W., Washington, D.C., is open to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. On exhibition concurrently with Professor Griffith's work are 29 paintings by William Woodward, GW assistant professor of painting. There will be a special opening of the gallery on Saturday, March 21st, (the day after the show's official closing) between 1 and 3 p.m. to give members of the public the opportunity to meet the artists. Lisner is a short walk from the Foggy Bottom/GWU Metro station on the Blue Line. Griffith lives on North Wakefield Street.

Office of Public Relations
George Washington University
Washington, D.C. 20052

CONTACT: JANE LINGO
676-6460 (office)
234-3453 (evening)

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MAILING DATE: MARCH 17, 1981

CONTACT: DIANE H. RUSH
676-6464 (Office)
338-3497 (Evenings)

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

GW EDUCATION GRADUATE WINS NATIONAL RECOGNITION

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Maggie Price Taylor was recently chosen one of 75 young leaders in education nationally by Phi Delta Kappa. She is the only person chosen from the Washington area and a graduate of George Washington University.

Reared in poverty and at one time sharing a one-bedroom house with 11 others, Taylor has always strived to further equal education opportunity for the disadvantaged, according to the organization's magazine, Kappan.

"Taylor moved in 20 years from a clerkship to a senior position in government, earning three degrees at night (the Ed.D. from George Washington University in 1978) while working, caring for a daughter, writing a dozen scholarly papers, and winning numerous awards, e.g., 1979 Woman of the Year from the D.C. charter chapter, American Business Women's Association, and Outstanding Service Award, D.C. Business Education Association, 1976," the Kappan said.

Presently director of the Community Services Division, Office of Procurement and Contracts, Department of Housing and Urban Development, Taylor supervises a staff which places and administers multi-million-dollar procurement and assistance awards in community development. Previously, she worked in the National Institute of Education and the U.S. Office of Education as a contract specialist and senior negotiator of contracts and grants.

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MEMO TO CALENDAR EDITORS

RE: 17TH ANNUAL TUPPER SHAKESPEARE LECTURE

"Acting Boys in Shakespeare's Life and Work" is the subject of the 17th annual Tupper Shakespeare Lecture at George Washington University on Friday, March 27 at 8 p.m. in Corcoran Hall, room 101, 725 21st St., NW. It is open to the public without charge.

This year's speaker is J. Leeds Barroll, chairman of the department of English at University of Maryland, Baltimore campus. His numerous publications include Artificial Persons: The Formation of Character in the Tragedies of Shakespeare (1974) and, in 1975 with other scholars, Volume III (1576-1613) in The Revels History of Drama in English.

This lecture is the 17th in the annual Tupper Shakespeare Lecture series at GW. The series bears the name of the late Fred Salisbury Tupper, for many years a professor of English at GW, who introduced generations of students to the joys and subtleties of Shakespeare's writings.

March 17, 1981

Robert Bove
676-6463 (Office)
333-0292 (Evenings)

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations. Washington, D. C. 20052 Phone 676-6460

DATE: MARCH 19, 1981

CONTACT: JANE LINGO
676-6460 (office)
234-3453 (evening)

FRANCES KIRKPATRICK, GW PROFESSOR EMERITUS OF HOME ECONOMICS

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Frances Kirkpatrick, professor emeritus of home economics at George Washington University, died Wednesday, March 18, in the Jewish Hospital in St. Louis, Mo. She had been suffering from poor circulation and heart trouble. She was 85.

Born November 10, 1895, in Richmond, Mo., she was a graduate of the University of Missouri (B.S. 1919) and of Columbia University (M.A. in Supervision, Household Arts 1929). She taught in secondary schools in Missouri and Illinois (1921-1925) and was instructor of home economics at Louisiana State University (1925-1928). She came to George Washington in 1929 as assistant professor of home economics, was named associate professor in 1933 and professor in 1946. She continued as professor of home economics until her retirement as professor emeritus in 1961, when she moved to St. Louis. She served as executive officer of the Department of home economics from around 1942 until 1961. She was a member of the GW faculty for 31 years.

During World War II, Professor Kirkpatrick worked with the Department of the Navy in organizing and supervising a program for training Navy nurses in nutrition and health. She also worked with local and national committees on nutrition and health. For many years, she lived at 2150 Pennsylvania Ave., N.W.

She leaves no immediate survivors. A number of cousins live in Richmond, Mo. and outside of Kansas city. Interment will be in Richmond, Mo.

4/19

JOHN M. GEPPERT, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence S. Geppert of South 77th Avenue, Omaha, a Westinghouse Science Talent Search Winner, is shown with George Washington University Professor of Engineering and Applied Science Shao W. Yuan on a recent visit to Washington D.C. Geppert, who has designed a solar energy concentrator which he hopes will bring affordable heating to most homeowners, talked with Professor Yuan about the professor's research findings on storing solar energy.

OFFICE OF PUBLIC RELATIONS
George Washington University
Washington, D.C. 20052

CONTACT: JANE LINGO
(202) 676-6460 (office)
(202) 234-3453 (evening)

OMAHA WORLD HERALD
G. Woodson Howe, Editor
World-Herald Square
Omaha, Nebraska 68102

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

March 24, 1981

GW PRESIDENT RECEIVES PERUVIAN DECORATION

George Washington University President Lloyd H. Elliott received the decoration of the Order of Merit for Distinguished Services (Gran Oficial de la Orden de Merito por Servicios Distinguidos) from Peruvian Ambassador Fernando Schwalb in Washington, D.C., Friday, February 20.

President Elliott received the decoration for academic hospitality the university extended to the president of Peru during a period of exile some years ago.

Peruvian President Fernando Belaunde-Terry, an architect and urban planner, was a member of the faculty of the Department of Urban and Regional Planning at GW from 1973 until 1977. Following his ouster as president of Peru in 1968, Belaunde taught at Harvard, Columbia and Johns Hopkins, remaining at GW for the most recent and longest period before his return to Peru in 1977 and his re-election as president in 1980.

President Belaunde had the occasion during his time on the GW faculty "to admire even more the respect for freedom and democracy...in this country," said Ambassador Schwalb. Schwalb cited Dr. Elliott for a long and brilliant career of more than 40 years as administrator and teacher and for his special interest in promoting a wider exchange of knowledge between the U.S. and Latin American countries.

CONTACT: FRAN MARSH
(202) 676-6460 (office)
(202) 333-6148 (evenings)

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MEMO TO CALENDAR EDITORS

RE: "THE FUTURE OF THE U.S. SPACE PROGRAM"

FREE LECTURE AT GW

What will happen to the U.S. space program after the space shuttle?

This and other questions will be examined by space policy authority and author Dr. John Logsdon at George Washington University on April 1 at 8 p.m.

Logsdon, GW professor of public affairs and political science and director of GW's graduate program in science, technology and public policy, will discuss future options of the U.S. space program: emphasis on exploration, increasing commercial use or higher priority given to defense applications of space technology. His talk will focus on criteria for balancing U.S. space activities among these potential uses.

The First Wednesday Lecture Series, of which Logsdon's presentation is a part, is held each month in rooms 402-404, GW's Marvin Center, 21st and H Streets, NW. To attend, call the Alumni Relations Office, 676-6435, at least a day in advance. The public is cordially invited.

March 24, 1981

Robert Bové
676-6463 (Office)
333-0292 (Evening)

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MAILING DATE: MARCH 25, 1981

CONTACT: JANE LINGO
676-6460 (office)
234-3453 (evening)

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

LISNER AT NOON TO FEATURE GW ARTISTS

WASHINGTON, D.C.--The Lisner at Noon series, George Washington University's free cultural samplings for the community, will feature all GW artists in three programs during April. The half-hour programs are given on Tuesdays at 12:15 p.m. in Lisner Auditorium, 21st and H Sts., N.W.

Eric Hausman, pianist, will perform music of Beethoven and Chopin on Tuesday, April 7. A GW alumnus with a B.A. in applied music, Hausman is continuing his studies with Malinee Peris of the GW music department. He is currently working on a repertoire for major international competitions, among them the Chopin Competition in Warsaw, Poland, in 1985.

George Washington University dancers will appear in three original works choreographed by GW graduate students in dance on Tuesday, April 14. The student choreographers are Cynthia Berkshire, Katherine Kozack and Denise McClellan. Their works will range from austere through classical to surrealist themes.

The GW Chamber Choir, under the direction of Catherine Pickar, will give a short concert of varied selections from music of the Renaissance to the contemporary period on Tuesday, April 21.

There will be no program on April 28. The Lisner at Noon programs are always open to the public without charge. Lisner Auditorium is a short walk from the Foggy Bottom/GWU Metro station.

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MAILING DATE: MARCH 26, 1981

CONTACT: DIANE H. RUSH
676-6464 (Office)
338-3497 (Evenings)

PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENT
FOR BROADCAST THROUGH APRIL 10

GW SHORT COURSES IN ENGINEERING

(30 SECONDS)

George Washington University's Continuing Engineering Education Program will present a series of short courses in communications, electronics and computers at the Royal Quality Inn, 4875 North Harbor Drive, San Diego, April 20-24.

For more information call (800) 424-9773. That's (800) 424-9773.

-end-

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MEMO TO INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS EDITORS

RE: ANDEAN/SOUTH AMERICAN POLITICS AND SOCIETY CONFERENCE AT GW

A cross-disciplinary conference examining the unique political and social forces at work in the Andean nations of South America will be held at George Washington University on Friday, April 10. Attention will be given to how various forms and levels of domination--some at work since pre-Columbian times--have affected the individual's relationship to community, state and the world at large. Speakers include:

- Professor John Murra, anthropology, Johns Hopkins University
- Professor Herbert Klein, history, Columbia University
- Professor Laurence Whitehead, politics and economics, Wilson Center and Oxford University

GW Professor of History Peter Klaren is conference moderator.

The conference will be held from 4-6 p.m. in GW's Marvin Center, rooms 402-404, 21st and H Streets, NW, and will be followed by a reception. For information call Professor Catherine Allen at 676-7545, Professor Cynthia McClintock at 676-6589, or Professor Klaren at 676-6426.

March 26, 1981

Robert Bové
676-6463 (Office)
333-0292 (Evenings)

News Release

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Medical Center Public Relations

2300 Eye Street, N.W., Room 712

Washington, D.C. 20037 202/676-3415

CONTACT: Irene Haske
676-3415

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

March 27, 1981

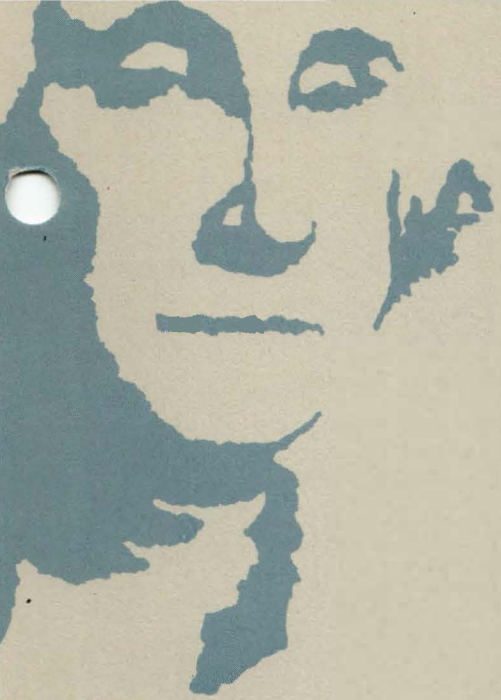

"FOLLIES" TO BE HELD AT GW MED SCHOOL

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Following a rich and rewarding tradition spanning 30 years of lampooning medicine and medical school, the students of The George Washington University School of Medicine and Health Sciences invite the public to attend the 1981 rendition of "The Follies."

To be held Saturday, April 11 at 7:00 p.m. in GW's Lisner Auditorium (730 21st Street, N.W.), the money raised by "The Follies" is used for scholarships and loans to GW's student physicians, nurse practitioners and physician assistants.

Generating lots of fun and from five to seven thousand dollars each year, "The Follies" is produced entirely by some 160 students who donate their efforts in lighting, music, props, sets, acting and directing, with professional results. One year in the planning and many weeks of rehearsal can only produce an uproarious evening of singing, dancing and stand-up comedy skits, all at the expense of modern medicine and medical education.

Tickets are available at the door for $6.00 ($4.00 for students). The audience is invited to attend the cast party with refreshments and music immediately following GW's "Follies." For further information call GWU's medical center public relations office at 676-3415.

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MAILING DATE: MARCH 27, 1981

CONTACT: JANE LINGO
676-6460 (Office)
234-3453 (Evening)

PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENT
FOR BROADCAST THROUGH APRIL 6

PIANIST ON GW LISNER AT NOON SERIES

(25 SECONDS)

The first program in George Washington University's Lisner at Noon series for April will feature pianist Eric Hausman (houseman). He will perform music of Beethoven and Chopin in a free, half-hour mini-concert on Tuesday, April 7th, at 12:15 p.m. in Lisner Auditorium, 21st and H Streets, N.W. The auditorium is just a few blocks from the Foggy Bottom/GWU Metro station.

-end-

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MAILING DATE: MARCH 31, 1981

CONTACT: DIANE H. RUSH
676-6464 (Office)
338-3497 (Evenings)

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

SEMINAR ON ECONOMIC STATUS OF OLDER WOMEN OFFERED AT GW
WASHINGTON, D.C. -- The impact of Social Security and pension programs on women homemakers, workers, widows and divorcees is the subject of a special five-week, non-credit seminar sponsored by George Washington University's Women's Studies Program and Policy Center on Wednesdays, April 29 - May 27, from noon to 1:30 p.m.

This course is specially designed to meet informational needs of those in women's organizations, organizations concerned with aging, congressional offices and government agencies concerned with the economic status of older women.

Edith Fierst, a lawyer and expert on retirement income policies, will conduct the seminars, for which continuing education units and certificates of participation will be awarded.

For registration information, call GW's Women's Studies Office, 676-6942.

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MAILING DATE: MARCH 31, 1981

CONTACT: DIANE H. RUSH
676-6464 (Office)
338-3497 (Evenings)

PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENT
FOR BROADCAST THROUGH APRIL 24

GW OFFERS SEMINAR ON ECONOMIC STATUS OF OLDER WOMEN

(30 SECONDS)

The implications of Social Security and pension programs for women homemakers, workers, widows and divorcees is the subject of a special five-week, non-credit seminar sponsored by George Washington University. The course meets on Wednesdays from noon to 1:30 p.m. beginning April 29 and running through May 27. For registration information, call 676-6942. That's 676-6942.

-end-